INTERNAL REGULATIONS OF THE BOARD OF DIRECTORS AND
ITS SPECIAL COMMITTEES

Updated by the Board of Directors' decision dated
17th of May 2022

BACKGROUND

At its meeting of 17th of May 2021, the Board of Directors (the “Board of Directors”) of the company Etablissements Maurel & Prom (the “Company”) made changes to the previous version of its internal regulations and approved the new wording on the same day.

These internal regulations have been drawn up to complement the Company’s legal and regulatory requirements and its articles of association. They fall within the framework of the general principles of corporate governance.

The internal regulations set out the membership of the Board of Directors, the rules governing the operation of the Board of Directors and its duties and contain the directors’ charter, which specifies the rights and obligations of each director within the Board of Directors. Each director is bound by these internal regulations. If the director is a legal entity, the provisions of these internal regulations apply to its permanent representative as if he/she had been appointed a director in his/her own name.

In these internal regulations, the corporate officers, executive corporate officers and non-executive corporate officers are those persons designated as such in the 29th of January 2020 revised version of the AFEP-MEDEF corporate governance code for listed companies (the “AFEP-MEDEF Code”), to which the Company hereby refers.

SECTION 1 – INTERNAL REGULATIONS OF THE BOARD OF DIRECTORS

ARTICLE 1 – MEMBERSHIP

1.1 Number of members and term of office

The Company is governed by a Board of Directors comprising at least three (3) and no more than twelve (12) members, subject to the exception provided for by law in the event of a merger, and one or more observers.

Each director is appointed, by the ordinary General Shareholders' Meeting on the recommendation of the Appointments, Remuneration Committee (the "Appointments and Remuneration Committee"), for a term of three (3) years. The decision of the Board of Directors to provisionally appoint a director in accordance with article 14.4 of the articles of association is also subject to the prior approval of the Appointments and Remuneration Committee.

Each director must ensure that he/she/it is in compliance with the legal requirements on holding multiple mandates. In addition, directors may not hold more than four additional mandates in listed companies outside the group of companies to which the Company belongs (the "Group"), including foreign companies. This rule is applied on the appointment or re-appointment of the director in question. The directors must notify the Board of Directors of all mandates held in other companies, including seats on the management or supervisory boards of any French or foreign companies as defined above. Executive corporate officers may not hold more than two other mandates in listed companies outside the Group, including foreign companies. In addition, they must obtain the opinion of the Appointments and Remuneration Committee and of the Board of Directors before accepting a new mandate in a listed company in accordance with article 4 of these Internal Regulations (Directors' charter).

1.2 Independence

A director is deemed to be "independent" if they have no relationship of any kind whatsoever with the Company, its Group or its management that could compromise their freedom of judgement. Accordingly, an independent director is any non-executive corporate officer of the Company or the Group with no specific ties (major shareholder, employee or otherwise) thereto.

Companies with diffused ownership and no controlling shareholders have an obligation to ensure that independent directors make up one half of their Board of Directors. Controlled companies, within the meaning of article L. 233-3 of the French Commercial Code, must ensure that one third of their directors are independent.

Each year, the Appointments and Remuneration Committee discusses who qualifies as an independent director, and this is reviewed each year by the Board of Directors, in accordance with the criteria listed below, prior to the publication of the annual report. A review also takes place upon the appointment of a new director.

After consulting the Appointments and Remuneration Committee, the Board of Directors reviews the circumstances of each of its members on a case-by-case basis, in the light of the criteria set out below, the specific circumstances of the interested party, the Company and the Group, then brings the conclusions of this examination to the attention of the shareholders in the annual report and at the General Shareholders' Meeting when the directors are elected.

The Board of Directors may decide that, despite meeting the criteria below, a director does not qualify as independent as a result of their particular circumstances or those of the Company, in terms of their shareholding or for any other reason. Conversely, the Board of Directors may decide that a director who does not meet the criteria below is nevertheless independent.

The following criteria are taken into consideration by the Appointments and Remuneration Committee and the Board of Directors to determine whether a director is independent and prevent any conflict of interest between the director, the management, the Company or the Group:

- they must not be or have been in the last five (5) years: (i) an employee or an executive corporate officer of the Company, (ii) an employee, executive corporate officer or director of a company consolidated by the Company or (iii) an employee, executive corporate officer or director of the parent company of the Company or a company consolidated by that parent company;
- they must not be an executive corporate officer of a company (i) in which the Company directly or indirectly holds a directorship or (ii) in which an employee designated as such or an executive corporate officer of the Company (either currently or within the last five (5) years) holds a directorship;
- they must not (i) have any direct or indirect links with or be a significant customer, supplier, investment banker, commercial banker or consultant of the Company or the Group or (ii) have any direct or indirect links with or be a client, supplier, investment banker or commercial banker for which the Company or the Group represents a significant portion of its business;
- they must not have a close family relationship with a corporate officer of the Company or the Group;
- they must not have been the Company's statutory auditor within the last five (5) years; and
- they must not have been a director of the Company for more than twelve (12) years, it being specified that directors are considered to have lost their independent status after twelve (12) years.

A non-executive corporate officer may not be considered to be independent they receive a variable remuneration in cash or shares or any remuneration linked to the performance of the Company.

Directors who represent major shareholders of the Company can be considered independent if they do not participate in the control of the Company. If a director holds more than 10% of the Company's capital or voting rights, the Board of Directors should, through its Appointments and Remuneration Committee examine the director's independent status as a matter of course, taking into consideration the composition of the Company's capital and the existence of potential conflicts of interest.

It is specified that the Board of Directors must discuss the assessment of the significance, or otherwise, of the business relationships with the Company or its Group and clarify in the annual report the quantitative and qualitative criteria (continuity, economic dependence, exclusivity, etc.) that have resulted in this assessment. The significant nature of the relationship is assessed from the Company's perspective and that of the director themselves. If none of the directors who are deemed to be independent have any direct or indirect business relationships with the Company or its Group, or if these relationships are not significant, this information must be specified in the annual report.

ARTICLE 2 – OPERATION

2.1 Convening meetings of the Board of Directors

The Board of Directors meets at least four (4) times per year and as often as the interests of the Company require. The Directors meet as often and for as long as necessary to ensure an in-depth review and discussion of all matters for which the Board is responsible can take place.

The Board of Directors is convened by the Chairman or, in the event of the temporary incapacity or death of the Chairman, by the Vice-Chairman of the Board of Directors who is most senior in age, who is delegated to act as Chairman. In the case of temporary incapacity, this delegation is given for a limited term and is renewable. In the case of death, it is valid until a new Chairman is elected. Notices of meetings may be conveyed by any means (verbally, by letter, by email, by fax or by phone) with reasonable advance notice, unless in an emergency.

When the Board of Directors has not met for more than two (2) months, at least one-third of the Board's members may ask the Chairman of the Board to convene a Board meeting to consider a specific agenda. The Chief Executive Officer may also ask the Chairman of the Board to convene a Board meeting to consider a specific agenda. The Chairman of the Board of Directors is then bound to act on such requests.

Meetings may be held at any location specified in the notice of meeting. The Directors meet at a location chosen by the Chairman of the Board to ensure that a maximum number of the members can attend.

2.2 Attendance at Board of Directors' meetings

Directors may be represented at Board of Directors' meetings by another director, in accordance with legal and regulatory requirements and the Company's articles of association. The proxy authority must be in writing. No director may hold more than one proxy in any given meeting.

Except when the Board of Directors meets to deliberate on matters specified in Articles L. 232-1 and L. 233-16 of the French Commercial Code (preparation and approval of the parent company and consolidated financial statements for the Company and the Group), directors are deemed to be present, for the purposes of establishing a quorum and a majority, if attending by videoconference or teleconference (including conference call) and using equipment that allows them to be identified and guarantees their actual participation, i.e. by at least transmitting attendees' voices and ensuring clear, continuous, live transmission of the deliberations. If this procedure is to be used for certain meetings, the Chairman will indicate this information in the notice of meeting.

2.3 Information for members of the Board of Directors

The Chairman of the Board of Directors or the Chief Executive Officer will, sufficiently far in advance, provide each director with the information and documents that are necessary for them to fully perform their duties. To this end, all documents necessary to provide directors with information about the agenda and the questions to be reviewed by the Board of Directors shall be attached to the notice of meeting or sent or given to the directors within a reasonable period prior to the meeting.

Furthermore, the directors must ensure that they receive sufficient information in good time so that the Board of Directors is able to validly deliberate. They are responsible for asking the Chairman of the Board of Directors for the information they consider essential for the proper completion of their duties, particularly in view of the agenda of the meetings. Accordingly, if a director considers that he/she has not been able to deliberate in full knowledge of the facts, he/she has a duty to inform the Board of Directors in order to obtain the information he/she considers essential for the proper completion of his/her duties.

Between the meetings of the Board of Directors, the Chairman of the Board of Directors, or any person designated by them, will provide the directors with necessary information at any time during the life of the Company, if the information is sufficiently important or urgent. This information includes all relevant information, including critical information, concerning the Company, in particular articles from the press and financial press. The transmission of this information can be provided by a secure way.

A director may meet with the key managers of the Group, including in the absence of the executive corporate officers, provided that the latter have been given advance warning of the meeting.

Furthermore, the Chairman of the Board of Directors gives each new director a standard file to ensure they are able to operate effectively in respect of issues before the Board of Directors, within a short time scale.

Directors may, if they deem it necessary on appointment or throughout their term of office, ask for additional training in the specifics of the Company, its business and its sector of activity. These training sessions are organised and provided by the Company at its expense.

2.4 Deliberations of the Board of Directors

Board of Directors' meetings are chaired by the Chairman of the Board of Directors, or if the Chairman is absent, by the oldest Vice-Chairman. If the Chairman and Vice-Chairman (or Chairmen) of the Board of Directors are absent, the Board of Directors appoints one of the directors present to chair the meeting.

The Board of Directors may only validly deliberate when at least half of its members are present. Decisions are made by the majority vote of the members present or represented. In the event of a tie, the meeting chairman has the casting vote.

An attendance register is kept, which is signed by the directors attending each Board of Directors' meeting and gives, if applicable, the names of the directors attending the meeting by videoconference or by any other means of telecommunication authorised by law, who are deemed to be present.

2.5 Secretarial functions for the Board of Directors

The Board of Directors appoints and fixes the term of office of a secretary, who may be chosen from among the directors or from outside their number.

2.6 Minutes of the meetings of the Board of Directors

After each meeting of the Board of Directors, minutes are prepared and then, signed by the Chairman of the Board of Directors and a director. The draft minutes are communicated to all directors for their approval prior to being signed.

Without going into unnecessary detail, these draft minutes contain, in addition to the disclosures required by the legislative and regulatory provisions in force, a summary of the discussions and decisions taken, with a concise summary of the issues raised or reservations expressed and notes about any technical incident regarding the videoconference or other means of telecommunication, if this disrupted the flow of the meeting.

2.7 Written consultation of the Board of Directors

The Board of Directors may take the decisions listed in article 16.9 of the articles of association by way of a written consultation.

At the request of the Chairman of the Board of Directors, the written consultation is addressed by the Secretary of the Board of Directors to each director by e-mail, with an indication of the time limit for response. The time limit for response is appreciated on a case-by-case basis by the Chairman of the Board of Directors depending on the decisions to be adopted by way of the written consultation, in accordance with the emergency, and the necessary reflection time for the casting of the votes. Unless otherwise specified, the deadline for response is five (5) days from the written consultation sending date. The secretary of the Board of Directors shall ensure that the e-mail of the written consultation is received by the addressees.

The communicated document to that effect mentions the conditions of the consultation (including the time limit for response), its purpose, the presentation and the motivation of the proposed decision, as well as the proposed decisions. It includes a box in which the director indicates his or her name, the meaning of his or her vote, which is expressed by "yes", "no" or "abstention", may, if necessary, insert a comment, and adds his or her signature.

The director sends his/her reply within the time limit set for the written consultation by returning to the secretary of the Board of Directors this completed document in a PDF format by replying to the e-mail sent by the Secretary of the Board of Directors.

Directors who have not responded by the end of the period specified for the written consultation shall be deemed as having abstained.

The Secretary of the Board of Directors consolidates the votes of the directors on each of the proposed deliberations and informs the Board of Directors of the outcome of the vote. Where applicable, this information includes the comments received from the directors.

The decisions are then formalised in minutes, signed by the Chairman and by the secretary of the Board of Directors and transcribed in the register of the minutes of the Board of Directors.

ARTICLE 4 – DIRECTORS’ CHARTER

The duties of a director impose certain obligations on all the members of the Board of Directors, whether they are directors who are natural person or representatives of a director that is a legal entity.

A charter has been drawn up, and the principles that are of relevance to directors are as follows:

- before accepting their position, directors must be aware of the general or specific obligations of their position, and in particular the legislative and regulatory provisions in force, the Company’s articles of association, the Code of Conduct, the recommendations of the AFEP-MEDEF Code and of these internal regulations of the Board of Directors as well as, where applicable, the internal regulations of the special committees, all the provisions of which are binding upon them;
- each director must personally hold a significant number of shares with regards to the remuneration perceived. Consequently, each director undertakes (i) to acquire each year 500 shares levied on the remuneration that is paid (or any lower number of shares corresponding to an amount of 3,000 euros) and (ii) to retain those shares until their term of office expires. This rule applies nor to the controlling shareholder director of the Company neither to the directors representing the controlling shareholder of the Company;
- directors must immediately notify the Chairman of the Board of Directors of any agreement entered into by the Company in which they have a direct or indirect interest;
- directors must inform the Board of Directors of any existing or potential conflict of interest arising from the exercise of their duties in another company, and must take all appropriate measures (particularly concerning the information available to directors) and refrain from attending the debate and voting on the corresponding deliberations;
- directors bear an obligation of loyalty to the Company;
- having been appointed by the shareholders, directors must act at all times in the best interests of the Company;
- directors must make themselves available and devote the necessary time and attention to their duties, be regular attendees and take part in all meetings of the Board of Directors, and those of any special committees to which they have been appointed, as well as, wherever possible, the General Shareholders' Meetings;
- directors must notify the Board of Directors and the Chairman of the Appointments and Remuneration Committee of any offices they hold in other companies, including their membership of board committees in French or foreign companies, and where directors are also executive corporate officers, they must obtain the advice of the Appointments and Remuneration Committee and the Board of Directors before accepting a new office in another listed company;

- directors are under a duty to obtain information and, to that end, they should demand of the Chairman of the Board of Directors, in due time, all useful information and documents required to effectively participate in meetings with respect to the matters on the agenda of the Board of Directors, insofar as they have not been communicated and to ensure they are sufficient and appropriate;
- with respect to non-public information obtained in the course of their duties, directors must consider themselves bound by a real obligation of confidentiality that goes beyond the strict duty of discretion provided for by law. Directors acknowledge that all information conveyed to them is provided solely for the purposes of their duties on the Board of Directors and/or any of the special committees of the Board of Directors and may not be disclosed to any third party or used outside the scope of their duties. This obligation of confidentiality does not prevent the permanent representative of a legal entity director from disclosing the information to the management or supervisory boards of that legal entity, it being specified nonetheless that the legal entity must take all applicable steps to ensure that the information is kept strictly confidential by all persons to whom it is provided;
- directors must observe and adhere strictly to the provisions of the Company's Code of Conduct relating to the prevention of insider trading, the text of which is attached, and they must declare transactions performed on the securities of the Company in accordance with applicable legal and regulatory provisions and send a copy of the corresponding declarations to the Company within the same time frame;
- directors must not use their title and office as a director to procure for personal gain or provide to a third party any benefit, financial or otherwise;
- directors must not assume any responsibilities, in a personal capacity, in companies or business activities that are in competition with the Company or the Group without previously notifying the Board of Directors and the Chairman of the Appointments and Remuneration Committee; and
- directors must refrain from any individual interference in Company matters, particularly through direct contact with executives, staff, customers of the Group, shareholders or investors, unless specifically tasked to do so by the Board of Directors or by the committee of the Board of Directors of which they are a member.

ARTICLE 5 – ASSESSMENT OF THE WORK OF THE BOARD OF DIRECTORS

The Board of Directors is responsible for assessing its own work in order to:

- review its operating procedures;
- check that significant issues are suitably prepared and discussed; and
- measure the actual contribution of each director to the work of the Board of Directors in terms of their skills and level of involvement in deliberations.

This assessment also provides an opportunity for the Board of Directors to think about the desired balance of its own membership and that of its special committees, especially in terms of diversity (gender, nationality, international experience, expertise, etc.), and consider from time to time whether its organisation and operation are adequate for the performance of its tasks.

To this end, once per year, the Board of Directors devotes an agenda item to a discussion covering its operation. A summary of this assessment is presented by the Chairman of the Appointments and Remuneration Committee to the Board of Directors. A formal assessment of the operation of the Board of Directors is made at least every three (3) years, under the direction of an independent director or the Appointments and Remuneration Committee, possibly with the assistance of an external consultant.

Each year in the annual report, the Board of Directors reports to the shareholders on the evaluations carried out and, if applicable, on any steps taken as a result.

Furthermore, the Company's directors meet periodically, and at least once per year, without the executive corporate officers of the Company in order to assess the performance of those officers and to reflect on the future of the Company's management.

ARTICLE 6 – REMUNERATION

Members of the Board of Directors may receive a remuneration for the performance of their duties, the total amount of which is determined by the General Shareholders' Meeting as part of the remuneration policy for non-executive directors.

On the Appointments and Remuneration Committee's recommendation, the distribution of the remuneration among members of the Board of Directors is determined by the Board of Directors in accordance with the remuneration policy for non-executive directors approved by the General Shareholders' Meeting. This distribution takes account, inter alia, of the actual attendance of each director at meetings of the Board of Directors and of any special committees and, therefore, its principal component is variable.

Directors may receive an additional or extraordinary remuneration following within the scope of the applicable regulation relating to the agreements referred to in article L. 225-38 of the French Commercial Code (related-party agreements) for carrying out any specific role for the Board of Directors. This will entail the conclusion of a regulated agreement.

The Board of Directors, on the recommendation of the Appointments and Remuneration Committee, ensures that the amount of the remuneration allotted to the members of the Board of Directors is appropriate, given the tasks and responsibilities the directors assume.

The rules of distribution of directors' Remuneration and the individual amounts paid to the directors are reported each year in the Company's annual report.

ARTICLE 7 – OBSERVER(S)

The Board of Directors may appoint one or more observers chosen from among the individual shareholders, up to a maximum number of four (4).

The term of office of an observer is set at three (3) years.

The observer(s) attend the meetings of the Board of Directors in an advisory capacity and may be consulted by the Board of Directors. They must be invited to each meeting of the Board of Directors. The Board of Directors may assign specific tasks to observers. Subject to compliance with legal and regulatory provisions and the Company's articles of association, as well as the recommendations of the AFEP-MEDEF Code, observers may be part of any special committees set up by the Board of Directors.

The Board of Directors may decide to allocate to observers a proportion of the global remuneration allotted to the Board of Directors by the General Shareholders' Meeting (in accordance with the remuneration policy for non-executive directors), and authorises the reimbursement of any expenses incurred by the observers in the interests of the Company.

PART 2 – SPECIAL COMMITTEES OF THE BOARD OF DIRECTORS

The Board of Directors may decide to set up one or more special committees, which may be temporary or permanent, designed to facilitate the operation of the Board of Directors and contribute effectively to the preparation of its decisions. The membership of such special committee(s) may be drawn from within the Board of Directors itself or support may be given from people who are not directors.

These committees are tasked with examining any issues that the Board of Directors or its chairman submits for their attention, to undertake preparatory work for the Board of Directors with regard to these issues and to report their conclusions to the Board of Directors in the form of non-binding, full and accurate, written or oral advice, minutes, information, proposals, reports or recommendations. It is specified that only the chairman of each of the committees of the Board of Directors is authorised to report to the Board of Directors regarding its work.

The members of each special committee of the Board of Directors act collectively. For the proper completion of its work, each special committee of the Board of Directors may decide to interview the Group's top management or third parties, subject to notifying the corporate officers in advance and reporting back to the Board of Directors thereupon.

Any request for additional information from a member of a special committee of the Board of Directors must be sent to the chairman of the special committee, who will be solely responsible for determining the necessity and appropriateness of this request and the conditions of its transmission.

The special committees perform their allocated duties under the responsibility of the Board of Directors. The Board of Directors determines the remuneration, if any, to be awarded to the members of the special committees.

The special committees can commission external technical studies on topics relating to their fields of expertise, at the expense of the Company, after having informed the Chairman of the Board of Directors or the Board of Directors itself and provided that it reports back to the Board on that matter. If special committees commission external consultation services, they will ensure the objectivity of the service providers they use.

The role of the special committees is strictly advisory. The Board of Directors will independently establish the steps it intends to take as a result of any non-binding, full and accurate, written or oral advice, minutes, information, proposals, reports or recommendations issued or drawn up by its special committees. Each director remains free to vote as they see fit, without being bound by the studies, investigations or reports of the special committees, and they are not bound by any advice these committees may offer.

The Company's annual report includes a report on the activities of each of the special committees during the previous fiscal year.

There are three special committees, each of which is subject to specific internal regulations:

- the Audit Committee ;
- the Investments and Risks Committee ; "IRC"
- the Appointments, Remuneration, and Social and Environmental Responsibility Committee (the "Appointments and Remuneration Committee") and
- The ESG Committee (the "ESG Committee").

INTERNAL REGULATIONS OF THE AUDIT COMMITTEE

BACKGROUND

These internal regulations are intended to set out the tasks allocated to the Audit Committee of the Company and specify its operational procedures, in addition to the applicable laws and regulations, the provisions of the Company's articles of association and the decisions and internal regulations of its Board of Directors.

ARTICLE 1 – MEMBERSHIP

At least two thirds of the members of the Audit Committee must be independent directors. Executive corporate officers may not be members. The members are chosen by the Board of Directors from among its members.

The Chairman of the Audit Committee is appointed by the Board of Directors for the duration of his/her term of office as a director or for a period determined by the Board of Directors. The appointment or renewal of the Chairman of the Audit Committee, as proposed by the Appointments and Remuneration Committee, is subject to close scrutiny by the Board of Directors.
